Category:English-language education books of civil liability, and that the right of action is not a mere technical right created by the chancery courts to the benefit of the creditor, but exists in the nature of a real right of action to the estate at the suit of a creditor or legatee or heir at law on the ground that the widow or legatee or heir has paid the debt out of her or his own property; and the nature of the remedy for its collection as in the nature of such action is a mere matter of abatement in the chancery court and remand of the action to the common law courts, where it would probably be tried anew by a jury." 30 C.J. 676, sec. 1135. In 45 C.J.S., Habeas Corpus, page 1072, it is said: "A right of action is a legal liability which may be enforced by the imposition of damages or other penalties." From an examination of the above authorities we conclude that the complaint on which the writ of habeas corpus was issued in this case was sufficient in law to sustain the granting of the writ. We are not here concerned with the correctness or accuracy of the complaint, but whether the complaint was sufficient in law to confer jurisdiction on the circuit court to grant the writ, since said court refused to grant the writ after issuing a stay thereof. The writ issued here seems to have been based on sections 8 and 9 of article 1 of chapter 64, Code of 1879, which provided: "The legal rate of interest shall be six percent per annum until paid, and every judgment or decree for the payment of money may bear one or more rates of interest, according to the terms of the contract, within the following limits, viz: 2 per cent. per annum, for the first year; 2 per cent. per annum, for the second year; 3 per cent. per annum for the third
