I don't want to give the user the option to put in their own values, so I decided to create a userForm to collect all of the variables, and use their name as the name of the Worksheet to save the data in. First of all, can you create an argument based on a dynamic name? Is that even possible? Dim userForm As Object Dim xCell As Object userForm = UserForm1 xCell = "a123" userForm.Show userForm.Sheets(xCell).Range("A1").Value = "123" I'm sure this is basic, but I can't seem to figure this out. A: I'm a big fan of Making Dynamic Tables in Excel so I'll use that instead: It doesn't rely on the user inputting the name of the sheet. It doesn't rely on the user inputting the Sheet Range (A1) It doesn't rely on the Sheet Range being fixed. I can't do a VBA demo from this but here's how it works. Let's say Sheet 1 has column A starting at A1 and you want to start putting data into that range. Create a sheet that will hold the main table called ListSheet Dim ListSheet As Worksheet Use the macro recorder to record something like this: Sub AddRangeData() Application.CutCopyMode = False ListSheet.Activate 'Whatever your code is going to be 'Put the data into column A ListSheet.Range("A:A").Insert xlDown, xlShiftToRight End Sub Then you need a way of feeding all those data values into this macro, and that's where the 3da54e8ca3
